Inhuman Cruelty To Child Charged

Stepmother, on Trial as Slayer of Girl, Accused by Witnesses

ASHEVILLE, N. C.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Brooks, on trial for murdering Willie Mae Mashburn, eight, her foster daughter, beat the child with stove wood and "whipped her for exercise," shortly before she died, a dozen witnesses testified in Buncombe county Superior Court Wednesday.

Morris Brooks, the husband, also on trial, was not implicated in actual abuse of the girl by his witnesses.

The child's playmates said Mrs. Brooks forced Willie Mae to run from the house to a stump and back repeatedly for exercise and once beat her with a "chair stick" for sitting down on the stump to rest.

A coroner's jury found death was caused by neglect and cruelty.

Calvin Cutshaw, brother-in-law of the defendant, said Mrs. Brooks asserted that she "did not care if the child died." Cutshaw's wife said Mrs. Brooks had whipped Willie Mae a few minutes before she died.

She said that once the child seemed to be cold and that when she went to the stove, Mrs. Brooks would "push it against the wall."

The witness told of another occasion when she saw Mrs. Brooks with a stick of stove wood in her hand and a few minutes later saw the child bleeding about the mouth and crying. She said she saw blood on the stick.

Pretty Divorcee Slain As 'Tipster'

Alleged Assailant Accused of Beating, Kicking Woman to Death

CLEVELAND.—(AP)—The slaying of a pretty divorcee, Mrs. Kathryn Jones, 28, was laid by detectives to her reputed activities as a "tipster" for prohibition agents.

Sol Levy, 40, identified by two persons as the man they saw kicking and beating Mrs. Jones to death early Wednesday, was charged with first degree murder. Eight others were held as material witnesses.

Mrs. Jones, mother of an eight-year-old girl, formerly was an operative for several private detective agencies and police said they were informed she told prohibition agents of liquor law violations. Federal officials said she had no connection with her work.

Harold McGrath, head of an agency formerly employing the woman, said she told him of receiving threatening notes and that he had warned her to stop "tipping off" dry agents. Detectives theorized she was slain by someone who thought she had "squealed" or was about to do so.

A party at an alleged East Side speakeasy, attended by Mrs. Jones and several men and women, preceded the slaying, police said.

Levy and two companions were arrested as they sought to leave the place, where police had gone after hearing a woman screams. Mrs. Jones was found lying at the bottom of a stairway. She died from a broken neck.

McFadden of Atlanta Believes Finance Corporation Will Aid Country

LITTLE ROCK.—Hayes McFadden, Atlanta, secretary of the Georgia Bankers Association, Wednesday said the two-billion dollar endowed Reconstruction Finance Corporation is the greatest agency to which America may look for leading the country out of financial and economic distress.

Mr. McFadden, publisher of the "Southern Banker," arrived here Wednesday morning and was entertained at luncheon by Robert E. Wait, secretary of the Arkansas Bankers Association, at which two representatives from each Little Rock bank attended.

Mr. Wait planned to leave for Memphis Thursday morning with a group of Arkansas bankers to attend meetings of the Tri-State Bankers Association convention at Memphis May 24, 25 and 26. Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee will be represented.

"The corporation has stopped the wholesale American bank failures," Mr. McFadden said. "This and similar results are only the beginning of what may be expected should the R.F.C. try to prepare to regain normal conditions. We are hoisting ourselves from this economic hole by a slow but sure process."

Woman's Auxiliary Begins 28th State Presbytery Session

Over One Hundred Delegates Attend Opening Meeting Wednesday

TO CONCLUDE FRIDAY

Dr. W. R. Anderson, Pastor of Local Presbyterian Church Is Speaker

With 125 delegates in attendance, the 28th annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary of Ouachita Presbytery held its opening session Wednesday evening at the First Presbyterian church in this city.

Greetings were extended by Mrs. K. G. McRae in behalf of the local auxiliary, and Mrs. B. W. McCormick, of Arkadelphia, responded for the visitors.

Mrs. Ward Dabney, soprano, and Mrs. H. J. Lenley, contralto, sang as a duet, "Tis Midnight On Olive's Brow," and Dr. W. R. Anderson, pastor of the host church, preached the Presbyterial sermon, using as his subject "Abiding in Christ," in which he pleaded for closer union of the church and its membership with the Lord Jesus Christ.

"Not one of the Disciples or immediate followers of Christ sinned after the crucifixion and resurrection of their Master," said Dr. Anderson, "but they were so closely united with Him and followed His teachings so explicitly that they were called saints: St. Matthew, St. Mark, St. Luke, St. John and so on."

Continuing, Dr. Anderson warned that lack of spiritual sanctification is contributing to lawlessness in the world over. "Don't think it is only in Germany, Russia, England, in Japan and in China, or in the great cities of our own country. It is everywhere because man does not abide in Christ, because we are not branches of the true vine and are not bearing fruit in the kingdom. We find lawlessness in our own state, in our own city and it has entered the sanctity of the home and is bringing about the destruction of this most sacred of institutions."

Other Sessions

Thursday's sessions have followed the program closely, and have been of unusual interest. The general theme, "The Vineyard," has been closely followed by the speakers, each of whom pleaded for more loyal work for the keeper of the vineyard and for the production of more and better fruit.

Mrs. B. H. Mahoney, President, of El Dorado, presided over the sessions. Mrs. Walter Craven conducted a discussion of Auxiliary methods which was very helpful and Dr. J. T. Barr, of Norman, told of the growth of his work at Norman with Caddo Valley Academy. Dr. Barr was born and reared in Hope and has devoted his entire ministry to home mission work in this field.

Dr. Dury McKenzie, president of Ouachita College, presented the cause of that institution immediately after the luncheon which was attended by about 200 people.

Mrs. Ray Sanders of Little Rock.

Japan Unlikely To Obey League Order

Soviet Anticipation of Trouble Adds to Geneva's Uneasiness

GENEVA.—(AP)—Uncertainty as to whether Japan will accept the League Assembly committee's resolution calling on Japanese to evacuate the Shanghai area "in the near future" caused some uneasiness Wednesday in League of Nations circles regarding the outcome of the Shanghai armistice negotiations.

Foreign Minister Paul Hymans of Belgium and Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the league, received Haruichi Nagaoka, Japanese representative, and sought to induce him to accept the resolution. Mr. Nagaoka replied that he was unauthorized to do so but he would query Tokyo. Subsequently Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese spokesman, called on M. Hymans and Sir Eric and accepted the committee resolution.

The uneasiness in league circles was increased by reports, spread by persons close to the Russian delegation, that the Soviet government now has strong forces in East Siberia and considers trouble with the Japanese likely soon.

Suspect Is Seized Here For Robbery

L.H. Lipsey, Former Newspaper Man, Held in Prescott Case

L. H. Lipsey, former El Dorado and Pine Bluff newspaper man was taken off the Missouri Pacific southbound train No. 5 Thursday morning by Chief of Police Claude Stuart on instructions from Sheriff E. H. Weaver of Prescott to hold him as a suspect in an attempted safe-robbing in that city Wednesday night.

Sheriff Weaver reached Hope shortly after noon and took charge of the prisoner, returning him to Prescott.

The sheriff said a safe in the "M" System store of Stripling & Son, Prescott, had been damaged Wednesday night by robbers who failed, however, to get it open. Lipsey, the sheriff said, had registered at a Prescott hotel Wednesday, leaving town on No. 5 Thursday morning.

When examined by Sheriff Weaver and Hope police here Thursday noon, Lipsey gave in his possession an automatic pistol, some extra clips of cartridges, two pairs of goggles, a screw-driver and other paraphernalia.

He is an aviator, and when in Pine Bluff resided at the Airport Country Club of that city.

Lipsey denied any connection with the attempted safe-blowing. He said he was on his way from Pine Bluff to Hope, spending the night in Prescott.

He was employed by the El Dorado News in 1928-29, and by the Pine Bluff Commercial since then, up to two months ago.

Sheriff Weaver said there were well-defined finger-prints on the safe at Prescott, and Lipsey's finger-prints would be compared with them. The sheriff gave it as his belief that three men were engaged in the robbery attempt.

Would Have Fatal Effect on Country's Monetary System

Head of Reconstruction Finance Corporation Talks to Committee

REVIEWS ACTIVITIES

Defends Loan of Organization to Missouri Pacific Railroad Co.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Charles C. Dawes, Thursday warned that the payment of the soldiers' bonus in currency would have a disastrous effect upon the country's monetary and credit systems.

The head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation related that his organization loaned 243 million to that the general withdrawal of bank deposits in the United States had stopped.

He said that 23 per cent of the funds was to banks in towns of less than 10,000 and 88 per cent in towns of more than 100,000.

He defended the loan by his organization to the Missouri Pacific Railroad, which he said was approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission and well guaranteed.

"The important thing to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is the number of depositors affected by the Dawes' warning against the currency inflation and pointed to the fall in Germany following an issuing of money."

Bureau Lawyer Called a Robber

Blanton Says Smith One of Clique Stealing From Government

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A House Committee met Wednesday by Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas, that William Wolff Smith, general lawyer for the Veterans Bureau, was a member of a "clique that has been robbing the government for a number of years."

Blanton said there were "four or five" others but he did not name them, in commenting on the absence of Smith, who collapsed last Saturday while being questioned by members of the Military Affairs Committee.

In addition to his salary as attorney for the bureau, Smith is drawing a monthly allowance for disabilities. Blanton has charged his ailments are not due to army service.

The committee has before it Blanton's bill which would have Smith dismissed from the Veterans Bureau and also would repeal the disabled emergency officers retirement act under which some 6,000 former officers are receiving allowances from the government.

Dr. H. W. Baxley, physician at the Mount Alto hospital, said Smith was suffering from an intense anxiety state and was not able to testify.

"If a shrewd lawyer would destroy his standing," Blanton asked, "Wouldn't he try to avoid it if possible?"

Dr. Baxley replied he did not think Smith was shamming. He said Smith was "weeping and much agitated" when he was admitted to the hospital Saturday.

Blanton repeated charges that Smith was incompetent and that he obtained and held his place through political favoritism.

R. J. Abbatichio, Veterans Bureau attorney, formerly in Smith's office, said many cases involving veterans' claims had been inefficiently handled by government lawyers.

He testified that the office virtually was under the control of Miss Annapal Hinderliter, a lawyer in the bureau, and said Smith had made misrepresentations in an effort to get promotions for Miss Hinderliter. He said that after he had complained of conditions in the office he was demoted and put on a temporary basis by Smith's order.

MAN HUNTERS

BY MABEL McELLIOTT

©1932 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

the window caught a glimpse of Denise casually embracing a tall, blond young man, carrying golf sticks. Unaccountably her heart lightened. In the flick of her mind all this time, unacknowledged, had lain the fear that Denise might be the unnamed character in Bob's life. It did not seem so hard to lose him to someone she had never seen. A real flash and blood rival was more terrifying. "Perhaps it isn't true," Susan thought.

She wondered where Bob was and when he was returning. How strange that he had not even written her a line! She had watched the mails day after day until pride had come to her rescue. Then the dream had died and more than one night her pillow had been wet with tears.

SHE dismissed all this now resolutely and began to think of other things—the house she had just left and her employer with his lean, ascetic face and quizzical eyes. Surely Ernest Heath had everything to be desired—wealth, position, friends and that beautiful house and garden. She could hear herself describing the place in detail to Rose or to Aunt Jessie. Aunt Jessie would sniff at what she called "old-fashioned" but she would be impressed just the same.

However, it was Ray Flannery who first heard the story of Susan's visit.

"My eye! Flowers, where are you going with that girl?" Ray shrieked, meeting Susan in the hall.

Susan turned a blooming face. "Aren't they lovely?" she asked. "They're from Mr. Heath's garden. I had to go out there to take dictation. He's laid up."

Ray whistled softly. "Getting a stand in?" she inquired. "I'll bet the maids didn't pick those for you."

Susan said with dignity. "One of the maids did. Mr. Heath told her to."

Ray whistled. "One of the maids! My hat! How many do they have and what kind of a place is it?"

"It's—oh, it's beautiful!" said Susan, eyes shining. "It's out in the real country. There's every kind of bird you ever heard of."

Ray chorled. "Wouldn't you think they'd want to live on Lake Shore drive or somewhere like that? Wouldn't you think they'd have a duplex up near the park?"

How anybody can see that country through a window, Ray thought.

"Yes, lovely," Susan told her. "You couldn't have a garden if you lived in a duplex apartment."

"Who wants a garden?" Ray demanded. She had followed Susan into the office and dropped herself gracefully over a partition. "Me, I'd have a standing order at a florist's for orchids or maybe gardenias."

Jack Waring interrupted them. "Sounds like your line, sugar," he said impudently. Ray made a saucy face at him.

"You know me, did I think?" To Susan she said, "See you later. Had your lunch?"

Hastily Susan said, "I've got so much work to do I'm going to have a sandwich sent up." Ray departed. Curiously Waring gazed at Susan.

"The boss must have been feeling better," he hazarded. Susan returned his look with utmost candor.

"No, he wasn't really," she explained. "He looks miserable. But he was so nice. He told Simon to wait and had all these gathered for me. It was sweet of him, wasn't it?"

WARING agreed gravely, keeping his thoughts to himself. He had learned several things in the last month or so about this girl. Cynic that he was, he had discovered that Susan was to be taken at her face value. What she said she meant and what she seemed to be she was. It was startling but true. Jack Waring had not understood that at first. Now he was a little ashamed of his earlier attitude.

Susan began to wish Waring would go. He made her nervous, sitting there drumming on the desk with his well-manicured fingers and eyeing her with that speculative gaze. She put away her hat, thrust the flowers into an umbrella stand and slipped open her desk. The man smiled wryly, recognizing signs of dismissal.

"Sorry you're so busy," he said smoothly. "I wanted to tell you about meeting an old friend of yours."

Susan had slipped a sheet of paper into the machine. Her eyes, intent on her work, raised to his for an instant.

"Old friend of mine? Really? Who is he?"

"Listen to her," the man teased. "For all you know it might have been a girl."

Susan laughed, embarrassed. "I know," she said, "but there was something about the way you said it that made me think."

"Yes, I think," he told her. "It was all right."

was a man and he was very much interested to know what you were doing."

Susan waited for him to go on. She thought impatiently that he was being rather silly. Why so much secrecy?

"Don't you want me to tell you about it?" Waring was laughing at her openly now and the girl lifted her great, luminous eyes to his own in wonderment. Quietly she said, "Yes, very much. Please go on."

SHE was scarcely prepared for the name he uttered nor could she restrain the warm color that flooded her cheeks.

"It was young Bob Dunbar," Jack Waring said. "And he was asking for you."

"Bob Dunbar?" As in a dream she answered.

"Yes. The old man wants some sort of Elizabethan shack out at Half-Day, you know, and Heath told me to run over and give him a line on it."

"No, I didn't know." Outwardly Susan was composed, but that throb of her blood told the tale.

"He's a handsome devil, isn't he?" pursued Waring. "Where'd you meet him?"

She kept her fingers steady on the keys.

"At business school. He was taking the course—some whim of his father's. Yes. He's very nice."

"Very nice. Very nice." The futile, foolish words mocked her. As if she hadn't been dreaming of Robert Dunbar's image for months. As if every lineament of his splendid young face weren't burnt on her brain. Very nice, indeed!

She forced herself to say with desperate calm, "He's to be married, I believe?"

"I don't know about that," said Waring with infinite carelessness. "All the girls in that crowd are after him, I suppose. He has every thing—money—looks—nice disposition. I've heard he's a bit wild."

His voice dropped confidentially, "Now you would be exactly the sort of girl for that young man. You have brains and you're rather easy on the eyes, yourself."

She moved her shoulders impatiently. Why couldn't the man leave? Her voice sounded heavy as she said, "Ah, but you see, he doesn't want me."

She would have given a great deal to have the words back. In a panic she wondered if she had given herself away.

Daughter: It's no good asking George, dad. He only knows enough about electricity to blow them out.

Florida Club to Alter Links for Big Golfers

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—By the time another winter golf season rolls around, the Miami-Biltmore layout will be one of the best in the south.

Officials of the club, where the rich open tournament was played this year, have started an improvement program, based on suggestions offered by Gene Sarazen, Tommy Armour, Johnny Farrell, Walter Hagen and other widely known golfers.

The program calls for rebuilding and remodeling several greens, elevation of a tee and re-arrangement of several traps.

Machinery Companies Barter With Farmers

AMARILLO, Tex.—(AP)—Farm machinery companies have shown a marked willingness to barter with farmers in the Panhandle.

They have offered up to 80 cents a bushel for wheat, 50 cents for corn, and from 8 to 10 cents a pound for cotton in exchange for machinery.

In many instances the purchasers are not asked to make down payments, and no mortgages are required except on the machinery.

Building Line Problem of Cougar Grid Mentor

FULLMAN, Wash.—(AP)—Development of line material is Coach "Babe" Hollingbery's chief problem in shaping up the 1932 Washington State College grid machine.

Four regulars from the Cougar forward wall will be badly missed next fall. They are Glen Edwards, 1930 All-American tackle, Joe Hansen, center, and George Hurley and Jack Partridge, guards.

In spring training Hollingbery has been priming Walter Camp, Angelo Busato and Norman Taylor for the tackle; Clem Senn, Harold Campanio and Virgil Odom for the guards and Frank Ingram for center. All are lettermen but Camp was the only gridder to play regularly last week.

Scales Has Alibi At Robbery Trial

Dallas Clubman Accuses Political Foes of Framing Memphis Charge

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—An adventure scene of a wealthy Texas family Wednesday sought to clear his name of a bank robbery charge by producing a "perfect alibi," and intimated that political enemies at Dallas were responsible for the accusations against him.

Herbert C. Scales, 37, Dallas clubman, educated at Cornell University and schools in Switzerland and Germany, fought for his freedom alongside of Ralph Abner, youthful confessed bootlegger and filling station operator of Dallas, with whom the state charges he participated in the $20,000 hold-up of a Main street bank here last May 4.

Scales, self-styled vice crusader and polo player testified he was in the lobby of a Dallas bank the morning of the Memphis robbery and introduced notes he said he signed at the time.

"I have money," he told the jury. "My family has money. My credit is good. I do not need to rob a bank."

He said he had crusaded against vice in Dallas during his political career there, and although he did not name those allegedly behind his arrest, his attorney, Maury Hughes of Dallas, said "there is political conspiracy."

Scales said he had managed campaigns for Schuler Marshall Jr., former sheriff of Dallas, and responding to a question from his attorney, said Denver Scales, son of former Sheriff Allen Scales, one of Marshall's enemies, was among the officers who arrested him at Dallas.

Scales said he had won the enmity of the present police officers at Dallas by his crusades. Hughes and Scales was indicted for another robbery in Texas, and that former Sheriff Marshall, indicted separately in connection with the same affair, had been tried and acquitted, but that Scales had never been able to get his case to trial.

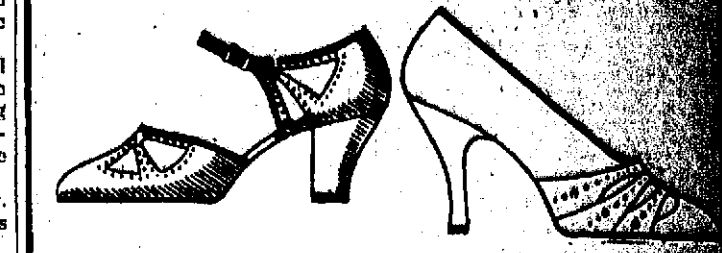

Arnold denied participating in the robbery. He said he had been a bootlegger, and had dealings with John (The Greek) Cherris, a gangster who was slain in Texas several months ago, allegedly by gangland enemies. Cherris was named in the bank robbery indictment against Arnold and Scales.

Arnold's attorneys introduced a receipt dated May 4 they said was given Arnold by Neal Hanson of Dallas showing payment for automobile repairs.

Earlier paid, police official at Dallas said, father's two sons came a better person in the firm of which was now in the case probably jury Thursday.

SEATTLE.—(P)—Now that the war is over a flock of Pacific coast wrestlers plan to go to the front.

Floyd "Musty" Musgrave, Seattle matchmaker for the Coast Athletic club the last three years, has resigned to open operations in Shanghai. He has lined up several grapplers, including Steve Sledge, Tom Alley and Al Karasick, and will move with them to the Chinese city to show their grunts and groans.

If the Chinese don't take to the shows they have arranged to go on to New Zealand.

New Football Rules Blow to Unbeaten Prep Eleven

ASHLAND, Ky.—(P)—The new football rules are viewed with disfavor by the Ashland high school Tomcats, unbeaten for six straight years and untied the last four years.

The wedge plan on the kickoff, use of hands by linemen on the defense, the flying block and flying tackle, all barred by the new rules, were favorites of the Tomcats.

Coach Paul Jenkins has seven 1931 regulars and 19 reserves in a squad of 75 out for spring practice to learn the new regulations.

ST. LOUIS.—(P)—"Better be first in a little Iberian village than second in Rome."

So Ray Starr slated to hurl in relief roles for the Cardinals this year, went back to Rochester, where he had been a regular starter and one of the stars of the International league. The shift was made at his own request.

"It took me years to get control in pitching," said the Centennial, Ill., boy who made good in the Cardinal farm system, "and I don't want to lose that control now through lack of work."

COLUMBUS, Ohio.—(P)—Changing clothes is almost enough to keep Carl Cramer, Ohio State university's crack quarterback, busy these spring days.

After attending classes in the morning, Cramer sheds his street clothes for a track suit and practices javelin throwing with the track squad for an hour.

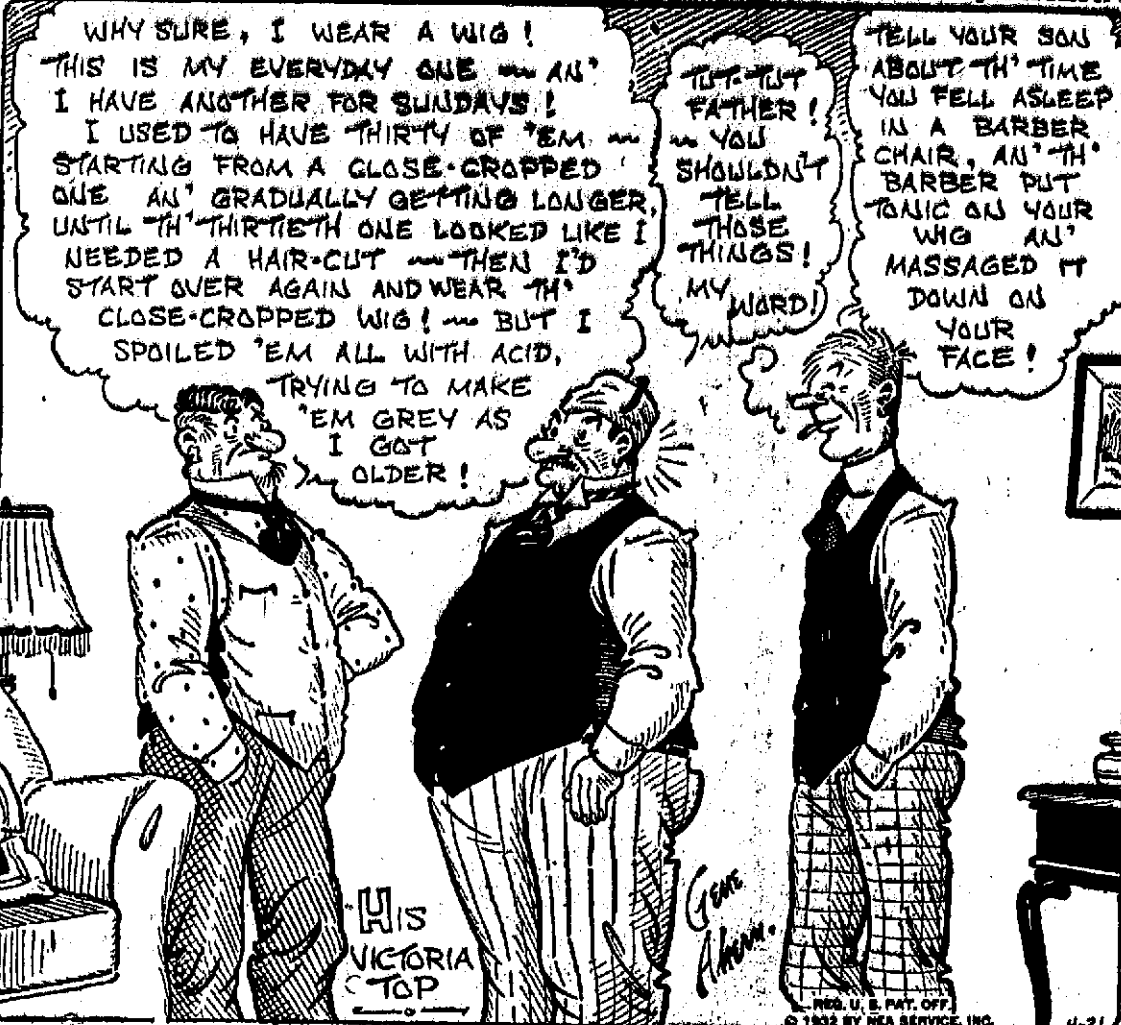

As if that were not enough exercise for one day, he then changes his track suit for moccasins and headgear and takes his turn with the spring football squad.

Crop Reduction Beneficial in Texas

Farmers Greatly Benefit By Cotton Acreage Control Campaign

HOPE, Texas—(AP)—Even though the cotton acreage control law is unconstitutional and its enforcement prohibited, it had a beneficial effect on the price of cotton and increased the profit to Texas farmers by $37,500,000, J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture estimated the entire crop was valued at approximately $127,500,000 from the cotton acreage control campaign.

McDonald stated the passage of cotton acreage control act by the Texas legislature and other legislatures in the south had a stabilizing effect on the market in the face of increasing business brought about by the huge overproduction and general economic conditions. The stabilizing effect was observed at the time when it would do the most good—during the heavy marketing season when prices have a tendency to fall.

Cotton market experts conservatively estimated the efforts to limit the production of cotton prevented declines of from one to three cents per pound and even caused the market to remain steady during the heavy marketing season. At times it rose in the market federal crop estimates of steadily increasing yields, McDonald reported.

This law supported the market to the extent of an average of one and one-half cents per pound, McDonald said. This would total $7.50 per bale. While Texas producing approximately 1,000,000 bales, a drop of one and one-half cents would have caused an actual loss of $37,500,000 to Texas farmers and $127,500,000 to farmers of the South.

At one time during the campaign for enactment of cotton acreage control laws, the federal government forecast was increased by 600,000 bales. Never before in the history of cotton marketing had such an increase failed to break the market at least 100 points in three days. Yet last summer it held twice against estimated increases of 600,000 bales and on another occasion cotton rose slightly, the commissioner reported.

McDonald, who waged a bitter fight in behalf of cotton acreage control, was sorely disappointed when the courts held it unconstitutional. He has expressed the belief, however, that it will have a highly beneficial effect by educating the farmer to the danger of over-production and the necessity of keeping production somewhere in the vicinity of demand.

Hot Springs Plans Historical Pageant

1,000 to Take Part in Event Celebrating 100th Anniversary

HOPE SPRINGS, Ark.—(AP)—More than 1,000 persons will take part in the huge historical pageant to be given here during celebration of the 100th anniversary of the creation of Hot Springs National Park.

The pageant will be staged at the Rex stadium at 3 p. m. Tuesday, April 24, the second day of the observance, which will last from April 25 to May 1. Five regimes in the dramatic history of "the land of hot waters," once sacred to Indian tribes, will be portrayed in the pageant. They are Indian, Spanish, French, 1832 period, and Modern Hot Springs.

The major episode in the Indian regime will be the discovery of Hot Springs. Bow and arrow and ceremonial dances will lend additional color to the atmosphere of the day when the Indians had possession of the hot pools.

The major event of the Spanish regime will be the coming of De Soto. In the regime when the French flag floated over the valley a vivid picture of the days of French engineers, trappers, explorers, traders and priests will be re-enacted.

The covered wagon days of 1832 will contrast the finale, Hot Springs of today with all its diversity of amusement and progress.

Another colorful event of the week of celebration will be a symbolical street parade, a pageant on wheels, as the entries of more than 30 organizations, portraying events in the various regimes, pass in review on large floats.

Pioneer Day will be observed Saturday, April 30, when Hot Springs residents in costume of 1832 will receive visitors and the streets will present scene of a century ago.

Voluminous calico dresses and wisp waists will feature millady's costume, and the young gallants will appear in silk stove pipe hats, high standing collars and black socks. A calico ball will mark the close of the day.

One of the most unique days of the week will be Bath Day, when special recognition will be given the resort's famous baths. Another day has been set aside as Aviation Day.
